To whom it may concern,

Attached, please find a copy of my resume. I am seeking employment as a Doctor of Podiatric Medicine with your practice.

I believe that my medical and podiatric experience, expertise and my passion for podiatry will be a strong asset to your practice. I obtained my Doctor of Podiatric Medicine degree from Barry University in 2015 and have received extensive training in all aspects of podiatric medicine and surgery with an added emphasis in reconstructive rearfoot and ankle surgery. As part of the largest residency program in the State of Florida, I was trained extensively in 2 hospitals and 7 surgery centers across South Florida. This experience has taught me to work well in a team environment, as well as provided me with interaction with many health professionals across many disciplines. I have learned from many of the leaders in our profession, including Dr. Jaime Carbonell, DPM, who served as the director for my residency program. I have followed this with over 3 years of experience working in private practice in Metro Vancouver.

I am highly motivated and am extremely hard working. As a resident, it was not uncommon to see a patient volume between 40-50 patients daily on the hospital floor. As a result of this, I have become extremely adept at performing history and physical examinations and all aspects of wound care, both through my training on the hospital floor, and the extensive amount of time I spent in a high volume, fully functioning wound care center. I am also trained in all aspects of foot and ankle surgery, having performed an immense volume of both elective and non-elective forefoot and rearfoot soft tissue and bony procedures, including trauma and reconstructive surgery. In addition to this, I am currently one of a very select few podiatric surgeons in British Columbia who is credentialed to perform surgery at False Creek Surgery Center in Vancouver.

Based on both my professional and my personal experience, I feel that my skills would be asset to both your practice and to all of your patients.

I look forward to meeting with you to discuss a position within your practice.

Respectfully,

Dr. Matthew Bolshin, DPM
